

I cannot believe that the FCC could possibly allow Sinclair to run a massive campaign of political propoganda.

Media conglomeration
is out of control,
and this is threatening the marketplace as well
as democracy itself.
FoxNews is clearly
partisan, but they have several challengers.
Sinclair, however,
can use their
horizontal monopoly
in a clear effort to influence an election. This is just wrong, and the FCC was set up to stop exactly this type of transgression.

The FCC should strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them.

Yours truly,
Tino Lucente
